

Simple Kindness

Judia

You'll never know what happiness a simple act of kindness will bring to you.

It was a beautiful day and the weather was so good. The weather was so perfect that my friend and I decided to take a walk on the beach. When we reached the beautiful beach, we headed immediately for a pizza stand. While we were enjoying the wind, we watched the vendor baked the piece of pizza. My friend took out her money to pay the vendor, however, he gave us a surprise. He said that the piece of pizza did not look so perfect and so we could have the pizza for free. We were very happy and expressed our thanks.

We sat down on the sand, watched the sea and enjoyed the piece of delicious pizza. As we talked and talked, we were distracted by an old woman who was sitting alone by the shore. She was looking at our pizza.

I could tell from her appearance that she hadn't showered for a long time. Deep inside my heart, I pitied her because she seemed to be a homeless woman. However, other than that, I didn't pay any more attention.

We decided to head off for some sightseeing after we had finished our pizzas. Then we went to the garbage can and we met the old woman again. She was obviously very hungry and was there to see if she could find any food in the can. I felt bad for her but I really didn't know what I could do at that moment. A second later, my friend ran away to the pizza stand and returned with a piece of pizza. My friend gave the piece of pizza to the old woman.

When we were on the way home, my friend said she was just passing on the kindness that the generous vendor gave her. From that day, I learned how to spread generosity.
